

Your single life – Feb 10 #2
(following on from 'Valentine's Day rant')

Broadcasting Act

Given the lack of reply from TVNZ, I checked out the Broadcasting Standards Authority's guidelines. Even though the Human Rights Act 1993 makes it illegal to discriminate on grounds of marital status, the Broadcasting Act 1989 - i.e. established four years before – does not include marital status as a category.

That means that any complaint raised with them would be unsuccessful.